Method of Experiential Learning Activity: Seminar Paper Presentation

1. Best Paper Award Received by students

On 14th March 2026, M. Com students participated in a seminar as part of an experiential learning activity, where they presented their research papers. This activity provided students with an opportunity to apply their theoretical knowledge to practical research and academic presentation. Through the process of preparing and presenting their papers, students developed skills in research, critical thinking, and academic writing.

The students were guided by Dr. Puja Sharma, whose mentorship supported them in developing their research work and presentation. Their efforts were recognized with the Best Paper Award, which was a proud achievement for the students and the institution.

2. Empowering M.Com 2nd Year Students: Learning to Access EBSCO in the Library

As part of our commitment to enhancing research skills and digital literacy, a special interactive session was conducted for M. Com 2nd Year students in the college library on 27th March 2026. A hands-on session was conducted in the library to train M. Com students on accessing and using EBSCO, a leading academic database. Faculty member Dr. Puja Sharma, Assistant Professor, DSCASC demonstrated how to log in, search for research articles, apply filters, and download full-text resources.

Students learned to use keywords, evaluate credible sources, and cite references effectively. The session enhanced their research skills and encouraged better use of digital library resources for assignments and projects.

3. Experiential Learning Activity – Seminar Paper Presentation

On 14th March 2026, M. Com students participated in a seminar as part of an experiential learning activity where they presented their research papers. This activity provided students with an opportunity to apply their theoretical knowledge to practical research and academic presentation. Through the process of preparing and presenting their papers, students developed skills in research, critical thinking, and academic writing.

The seminar also helped students improve their communication and presentation skills while interacting with scholars and participants from different institutions. Such experiential learning opportunities enhance students' confidence and expose them to the academic research environment, thereby contributing to their overall academic and professional development.

4. Experiential Learning Initiative
M.Com Students Deliver Lecture to BBA Final Year

The Department is pleased to share a successful Experiential Learning Initiative taken on 31st March 2026 where M. Com students G Mahati and Ramya A delivered an engaging lecture to BBA Final Year students on the topic "Trade Regulations" as part of the Business Law curriculum.

The session was conducted under the guidance of Dr. Puja Sharma, with the objective of bridging the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical application. This initiative provided M. Com students with an opportunity to take on a teaching role, thereby enhancing their subject understanding, communication skills, and confidence.

The lecture focused on the practical relevance of trade regulations in the modern business environment, encouraging interactive discussions and real-world insights among the students.

Such initiatives play a vital role in promoting active learning, peer teaching, and academic excellence, preparing students for future professional and academic challenges.
