Birdwatching - 11th March 2025

I really enjoyed the bird watching workshop conducted by the Attari Birders club in association with Eco Unit - Prakruthi & ISK unit - DISHAA. It was a wonderful experience to learn about birds, birdwatching techniques, the importance of bird conservation and to observe different types of birds within the college campus. Aksheta ma'am was very knowledgeable and helped us understand about the various types of birds by their calls and colours. I especially liked the birdwatching session which was held in the second half (afternoon) where I could get to know more about the birds within the campus. It felt like a mini trip but quite interesting. Using the binoculars to get a closer look of the birds made it more exciting. We even saw a bird's nest and learnt the names of different types of birds. Overall the workshop was really good which helped me appreciate nature even more, also increasing my interest towards birdwatching & conservation. I would surely love to join more such sessions and explore different bird sanctuaries in the future.
