		Coordinator, ICFAI Business School, Bengaluru, delivered the keynote address on "FinTech: Transforming Finance – Global and Indian Perspectives." Dr. Manisha Singh provided an in-depth overview of the evolution of financial technology from its early stages to the current AI-driven era. She discussed the role of digital payments, blockchain technology, robo-advisory services, and regulatory technologies (RegTech) in reshaping financial services worldwide. The session also highlighted India's journey as a global leader in real-time payments and its public digital infrastructure initiatives like UPI, Aadhaar, and DigiLocker. She further encouraged faculty to explore emerging research avenues in artificial intelligence, embedded finance, and sustainable fintech, thereby making the session highly valuable for academicians and researchers. □ Session 2: Dr. Ajoy Kumar, Head of the Department of MBA, Siddaganga Institute of Technology, Tumakuru, conducted a session on "Research in Finance: Issues, Data, and Trends." Dr. Ajoy Kumar's session emphasized the breadth of finance research, covering equity, derivatives, debt, commodity, and forex markets. He elaborated on key research issues such as market microstructure, information efficiency, price discovery, hedging effectiveness, and regulatory interventions. A major focus of his session was on data-related challenges in finance research, including time-series issues, data accuracy, missing values, and structural breaks. He also highlighted the importance of using reliable sources like NSE, BSE, RBI, SEBI, and global databases like Bloomberg and Prowess. His practical suggestions on overcoming these challenges were particularly appreciated by participants who are actively engaged in academic research. □ Session 3: Dr. T. Mohanasundaram, Associate Professor, MSRIT, Bengaluru, engaged participants with his session on "FinTech in India vs Global FinTech – Role of Contributors including Government, Startups, Banks, Regulators, Paytm Case, ONDC and OCEN." Dr. Mohanasundaram's session offered a comparative perspective on the global and Indian fintech ecosystems. He discussed the critical roles played by governments, startups, banks, and regulators in shaping the digital finance landscape. Using the Paytm case study, he illustrated the growth trajectory and challenges faced by Indian fintech companies. He also introduced participants to Open Network for Digital Commerce (ONDC) and Open Credit Enablement Network (OCEN), explaining their potential to democratize digital commerce and lending in India. The session was highly interactive, with participants engaging in discussions about policy interventions and collaborative models in fintech. □ Session 4: Dr. Balajirao, Director, OSAT Knowledge Pvt. Ltd., Bengaluru, concluded the conclave with an "Investor Awareness Program." Dr. Balajirao's session focused on building financial literacy and promoting informed investing. He explained various investment avenues, risk management strategies, and portfolio diversification techniques essential for both novice and experienced investors. He stressed the importance of understanding market
