Introduction
 A love towards mother and child is affection between the child and mother. There is no father as in all about the mother and child. A mother she care very good towards child. Whatever may be the situation she will never give up on her child. She will support for the child in very critical situation. She will motivate the child by their inspirational words. Mother will always be there for child. She always use love towards their family children. About about their parents in a responsibility. No one will save you as your mother mother is a reflection of god.

Mother is the one who order and care in the situation about your good and bad. Says child about with mother happy. A mother always love around the heart of the child. Every mother is very important person in their child life. She is a guide, teacher and unconditional love.

A mother is very unconditional and never compare with anyone. God could not be every where. We can be with mother. Mother she is the greatest mother love. Is very pure and mother cannot be replaceable.

For Every Kid Mother is the first guru she is the one who shows what the world is for her children. When ever we are in some problem at that time mother is the one who come to support us. If she is facing a lot of problem in her life also but whatever the child ask she will never say that I will not get it. She always say and buy us what ever we want. When ever we are with our mother what ever she says we will not listen when the mother is not with us we will go to know the value of our mother. If she is facing any problem she will never say her problem for the children. She always give happiness to their children. She takes a lot of care right from the birth. She gives us their life get settled and if there is a girl children after the child grown up to some sort of age after that she need to marry and give a child to someone. That is the most painful moment for child and mother. At that time we will know the value of the mother and how much she is sacrificed for us. Sometimes if any one is blaming us she is the one who come first and to support us. She will never leave her child in hand of any one. No one can love, care, support, motivate as the mother. Never ending love towards these kid. A Day to Honor the Unreplaceable Person in your life - Your Mother. Thank You for Everything You've done for us. It's more than we can ever repay you how you always.

Picture Interpretation
The picture describes the bond between the mother and the child. The reason behind all the human beings existence is mother who carries the child for 9 months and gives birth with a lot of pain which is equal to breaking of bones at a time but she smiles and forgives all the pain when she sees the face of the child. A female birth will be fulfilled when she promote to the mother where she leaves her birth home and move to husband's home and treats everyone with the same love and gives birth for their family and she never complains or degrades about her family in front of others and not even in front of her parents she always looks to safeguard the family. A Mother never wants to see her child struggling. She always wants them to be happy. She not even share her pain & struggles with them. Everyone we are aware that in all the houses mother is the one who says last when everyone says and not even single day we care that is anything left for her or not?

This picture depicts one of the great combinations in the world. Mother and child love is invaluable. The love and care given by the mother is not compared to anybody in the universe. Her love is eternal. She has done and will do many sacrifices to her child.

For every child mother is an emotion. Mother is important in growth and development of child usually in the same way father plays a major role in our life. Both are equal in their own ways. Father works for hours together to keep their children happy & by providing the best facilities available.

Once the children grows up and get their own family they like most of them decide to join their or keep their parents separately. The love and care shown by parents and the sacrifices they make cannot be returned in any way. Mother is the one who protects, guides, care to and nurtures all the good qualities in the child.
